

well as for the welfare of the dog.

Breeder warrants that breeder is the sole legal owner of the dog, and hereby relinquishes all claim of ownership of, and financial responsibility for, the dog and requests STOLA to locate an appropriate adoptive home and to place the dog in that home. Breeder understands that the dog will be neutered or spayed prior to placement in an adoptive home, if this has not already been done. If, for any reason, said dog is returned to STOLA by the adoptive home, or if STOLA reclaims the dog from the adoptive home, or if the dog is returned to STOLA by any other means, the breeder will be contacted and will receive first right of refusal to take the dog back before the dog is placed for adoption again. It is the breeder's responsibility to keep STOLA informed of the breeder's current contact information by promptly providing STOLA with changes in the breeder's mailing address, telephone number and e-mail address. If STOLA is unable to locate the breeder within two weeks after the dog has been returned to STOLA, the dog will be considered available for adoption.

No guarantee of health has been given to STOLA by the breeder and STOLA agrees to hold the breeder harmless for any veterinary or other expenditure that may arise after this date. At the breeder's request, all transactions relating to the surrender of this dog shall be held confidential by STOLA. If this confidentiality option is desired, the breeder will so state by marking and initialing the appropriate area below.

Confidentiality Clause: By initialing beside this clause, the breeder requests STOLA to maintain confidentiality in this transaction.
